

Managing costs in voice and data communications networks

The DatelCHECK service is designed specifically to refine and streamline the cost management of your voice and data communications networks.

By drawing from a pool of exceptional talent in telecommunication services, we offer a consultative approach to the ever increasing demand for cost efficiency and value-for-money.

Our team's pedigree in this area is second to none with outstanding references for projects that have saved clients hundreds of thousands of pounds per year, as well as demonstrating rapid payback on network development and enhancement.

Depending on your requirements, you can benefit from our DatelCHECK service through delivery of a one-off audit project or as an on-going managed service.

The service

DatelCHECK identifies all assets and costs associated with network and service provision, determining the need of the assets and benchmarking their cost against industry standards. The service delivers:

- Analysis of use and value-for-money for all network components
- Rework of network design to eliminate underutilised or redundant elements
- Analysis of capacity requirements for high bandwidth or multi-serving circuits
- Creation of an asset database to facilitate better on-going cost management
- Cease management for all services determined to be no longer required
- Analysis of billing data and application of approved tariffs to ensure correct charging
- Identification of services that could benefit from competitive tendering
- Review of management tools and their configuration to ensure correct reporting of capacity and usage
- Set-up and monitoring of regular reports to demonstrate effective use of the assets and to match against suppliers invoices
- Configuration of cost centre charging structures and reporting to enable first line management of cost
- On-going bill verification and tariff management services
- Project management of network improvements, site relocations and other business changes to maintain integrity and accuracy of costs, maximise the use of deployed assets and minimise the risk of change

"Datel were introduced to me several years ago and from the very start of the relationship I felt very confident that they had a proven process coupled with experienced personnel who could deliver the significant savings that we had discussed at the kick off meeting. Datel have intimate knowledge of the third-party suppliers, billing processes and procedures which helps them to quickly highlight areas of discrepancy. They exceeded my savings forecast and also left a legacy of improved processes."
